Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Wednesday 15 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Sunny intervals. Scattered showers, mostly in north and west.

Today:
A lot of dry weather with bright or sunny intervals developing, best over eastern Scotland. Cloudier skies over north and west Scotland with scattered showers and the odd heavier shower is likely this afternoon in the north.

Tonight:
Much of Scotland will be dry with clear periods. Cloudier across the Northeast and Northern Isles with scattered showers continuing. Light winds.

Thursday:
Showers in Northeast at first soon clearing away. Then much of Scotland will have a dry, bright day with sunny spells. Patchy rain and strengthening winds reaching West Coast later.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Rain over western Scotland on Friday, edging eastwards before clearing on Saturday. Some drier, brighter weather over the weekend but another band of rain reaching western areas during Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.